

Nemo's Adventure in Mexico

Once upon a time there was a boy called Nemo and Nemo had a secret; what was it? He had a special special watch which was in a box, in the box he also had daggers, swords and guns and other weapons. In another box there were buttons these buttons made you go to whatever country you wanted to go to.

One button made you smaller and another button made you disappear but you were really just sitting there.....

One day Nemo put his watch on and pressed a button and he was off!!!

He also had an automatic car that could fly on its own and one day Nemo flew it to Mexico. In Mexico he began to shrink and had an adventure looking for treasure. If he was big he wouldn't manage to get the gold but if he was small he could get in and get the gold. He put the gold in his adventurer's bag.

He travelled for a year and a day so it was a long time before he saw his family again.

He got famous. He went on TV - he was a spy adventurer. He bought a dog called Karate and he was also an adventurer spy.

By Naseem Al-Qaq, aged 7

